

FLOYD DRYDEN HOSTS HEALTH FAIR

Juneau Empire

About 560 Floyd Dryden Middle School students participated in the Alaska Regional Health Fair on April 18 at the middle school.

The fair was coordinated by the Young Parent and Healthy Teen Center, a program of Catholic Community Services. Presenters from a wide variety of backgrounds attended the event, including representatives from AWARE, Zach Gordon Youth Center, NCADD, Pavitt Health & Fitness, the Pep Grant, University of Alaska Fairbanks Cooperative Extension Service, Lemon Creek Correctional Center, Public Health and SAIL/ORCA.

In addition to learning about elements of physical, emotional and societal health, students all had height and weight measurements and vision tests. During the fair, they had the opportunity to win exciting door prizes from generous donors including the Nugget Alaskan Outfitters, Hearthiside Books, Wal-Mart and Foggy Mountain Shop.

Front row, from left, are Juneau-Douglas High School volunteers Karen Leder, John Correa, Matt Tibbitts-Travis and Kayla Brown. Back row, from left, are Floyd Dryden principal Tom Milliron, fair coordinators LaTroy Burras and Nikola Juris, and Lemon Creek Correctional Facility Correctional Officer Ray Lee.

A student wears NCADD drunk goggles while taking a field sobriety test.

